E&T Final Project Written Portion

I was unable to say more than half of the things I wanted to say during my presentation because I had a severe anxiety attack and eventually had to stop at about nine minutes because I could no longer talk properly. The webpage I linked gives a more thorough, organized, and comprehensive display of my thoughts and ideas.

I was not able to complete everything I had on my grading contract. I am referring specifically to having the web page be responsive to different screen sizes. This portion of the project was never my first priority, and I feel that I took on more work than I could handle.

I learned that I need to get a much more solid idea for a project before I start designing anything. I will definitely learn from this and use this lesson actively during capstone in my senior year. I wish I had stuck with my first idea for this project, as I believe it would have been far more interesting and creative.

My research for this project was also quite weak. Unfortunately, I could not get myself to do more thorough research despite how much I told myself that I had to.

I certainly don't expect a perfect grade for my final project. I am disappointed in myself and my mediocre work. But I have learned a lot from this experience, and I hope to do better in the future with large projects such as this.
